The programme of the 'Si Club for next Tuesday afternoon contains the following interesting subjects in special history for discussion:

Essay, "Ciril War of 1821," Mrs. E. H. Chapman.

Topics—(I) "Belmaceda," Mrs. John A. Ross; (2)

"Recent Development of Chile," Mrs. T. H. Kennedy; (3) "Current Eventa," Mrs. B. T. Whipple.

January 31 will be celebrated as Eugene Field day by the S. L. K. Club of Troy, Kas. Miss ida Saxton will give a sketch of Field's life. Readings from Field's writ-ings will make up the rest of the pro-

Chicago has a writers' coterie called the Independent Pen Women's Club. Mrs. Stetson's book. "A Woman in Economics." was reviewed by Miss Ada C. Sweet at the last meeting in Handel hall. Miss Blanche L. Fearing read an original poem. A discussion of recent American novels followed.

January II will be observed as Kansas day in the Thenian Club, of Newton. The roll call will be responded to by enumerating Kansas products. A discussion will follow on the question, "What nationalities have benefited us most as settlers?" The resources of the state, its colleges and schools, historical' events of interest connected with it and reminiscences of early times will be talked of informally.

times will be talked of informally.

The Sorosia, of Springfield, Mo., will hold its regular monthly club meeting on Wednesday next. The subjects under consideration for the day will be the interesting conditions that are marking the close of this century and shaping the destiny of the next. Mrs. E. H. Grabill will present the subject. Mrs. S. A. Haseltine will tell of "Discoveries in the Thought World." Dr. John Nixon will give an address on "Medical Scienca." "Education" will be the subject of Mrs. James R. Milner's talk. Mrs. Gertrude will speak of "Clubs and Their Work."

The programme for next Wednesday's meeting of the Nautilus Club, of Sedalia, is distinctly a woman's programme. Madame de Bevigne, Madame de Maintenon and Madame de Montespau will be the subjects of short talks by Miss Gertrude Faulhaber, Miss Edith Faulhaber and Miss Anna Florer. Mrs. Charles C. Evans is on the programme for a plano solo. A paper on "Madame de Stael and the French Salon" will be given by Miss Eleanor Humphrey. Miss Elsie Waddell will lead a discussion of the status of woman in France in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

Current topics will occupy the attention of the Saturday Afternoon Club, of Hays City. Kas., at the next meeting. "The Angio-American Alliance" is Mrs. Sallie Griffith's subject for the afternoon. Mrs. Anna Perkins will tell of the "Conditions and Resources of the United States."

With next Friday's meeting, the Friends in Council, of Springfield, begin their study of the "Evolution in Ideals." Mrs. Jeannette W. Lyle's paper for the day is entitled, "The Idea of God in the Greeks and Shakespeare." Mrs. Ida M. Nichols will lead the debate. The question is as follows: Which of the three Greek conceptions of God is the most consonant with Shakespeare's implications?

Parliamentary drill will be indulged in, and Mrs. May N. Perry will preside.

The Prospect Avenue Magazine Club held an open session recently, at the home of Judge J. B. Stone. A literary programme of especial interest was presented. Roll call was responded to by quotations from Eugene Field. The opening address was given by the president, Mrs. Stone. Miss Rebecca Jones recalled many interesting personal experiences of the civil war time. A plano solo by Miss Merine followed. "The Building of the Temple" was the title of a paper read by Mrs. L. Y. Jacobs. In its construction the names of the club members were made to stand for certain parts and furnishings. Mr. Barnett gave a humorous reading. Miss Dalsy Louden and Mr. Theeleaven gave vocal solos that were much enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served.

Athenaeum Club days for February will be as follows:
Wednesday, February 1, 2:30 p. m.—Open session department of current events,
Wednesday, February 8, 2:30 p. m.—Called business meeting of the club.
Wednesday, February 15, 2:30 p. m.—Musical department open session. Miss Lichtenwatter will be one of the soloists. Wednesday, Februar and Daughters' day.

The History class of '88 will meet to-mor-row with Mrs. E. H. Scott, corner Ninth and Locust streets.

The Friends in Council at Falls City, Neb., is a club composed of twenty of their brightest young ladies. For three years they have held their regular meetings from September to June and since last September they have belonged to the Nebraska State Federation. This year they have been studying history. At their last meeting the club had the delightful pleasure of a moonlight ride to the beautiful country home of their worthy member, Miss Keim. The programme consisted of well prepared papers relative to the early history of Greece, each paper being of exceptional interest and highly instructive.

The Magazine Coterie will meet Monday afternoon with Mrs. S. C. James, 400 Wabash, to discuss the following subjects: "Eminent Literary Women of the Present Age," Miss Minnie McIntyre; "Are Americans Deteriorating?" conversation led by Mrs. Walker: "From Dip to Dynamo," Mrs. H. L. Fondlin: "Effects of Heredity and Environment on America." Mrs. Linda Clarkson; "Historic Landmarks of America," Mrs. S. F. Allen.

The Mothers' Union will meet on Monday at 3:20, in the Central school. Mrs. John Gish will talk of the minor abnormalities in children. Everyone is invited.

The regular meeting of the Clara Schu-mann Piano Club was held January 21, at the studio of Miss Louise Parker. The folowing programme was given:

lowing programme was given:
Paper and discussion.
(a) "Tannhauser," Miss Von Unwerth; (b) "Meistersingen," Miss Davenport.
Minuet (Harnberger, Miss Holsinger,

and Mrs D. L. Jones.

One of the most interesting miscellaneous club programmes for 1898-99 is that outlined by the yearbook of the Hays City Saturday Afternoon Club. The study of Emerson occupied a month the first of the year. Magazine articles and topics of current interest were also reviewed. For a number of weeks following that the programme was devoted to scientific and sociological studies. In November what might be termed an agricultural meeting was held. Oyster beds, cranberry bogs and the cultivation of celery were described. Miss Elsie Macintosh read Whittier's poem. "The Pumpkin," and spicy rhymes were given by members. Phillips Brooks, Browning Gladstone and Wordsworth were studied next and were followed by an afternoon given over to the discussion of political reform.

ternoon given over to the discussion of po-litical reform.

Beginning with the new year, one espe-cial subject was assigned for each day, Spain being given first preference. England, Hawaii. Christianity, the South, patriotism, clubs, Eugene Field, woman and parliamen-tary rules make up the decidedly varied list of subjects for the spring meetings. In studying a country, the national air is given a prominent place on the pro-gramme.

Excellent subjects for discussion taker
nt random from the yearbook are as folat random from the yearbook are as follows: "Practical suggestions as to how the Saturday Aftermon Club can beautify the town;" "At what age shall a girl accept an escort;" "Why men object to business dealings with women," "The club women at home;" "How shall we educate our children in patriotism."

At last Friday's meeting of the Springfield Friends in Council the interesting question as to whether or not poetry is neglected in the education of children was alscussed by Mrs. Rosa Ward Atwood. Mrs. Edwina M. Waddill presented a paper entitled, "Sonship as Represented by Edgar and Edmund in King Lear." The topic for debate was as follows: Why has the poet made the battle turn against Lear (changing in wits respect both from history and the old play)?" Mrs Sallie Bracken Smith led the debate.

The Ladles' Reading Club. of Girard, Kas. will celebrate next Friday, January X. as Kansas day. Mrs. Jeannette F. Scott will be the bostess for the afternoon. In answer to roll call each member will name a Kansas patriot. Mrs. Anna L. Grund will tell of the women of Kansas and their achievements. Kansas men will be done full justice by Mrs. Alice Millington. Mrs. Helle E. Gaitskill will close the literary programme with "History and Reminiscences." The members will join in singing "America" as a fitting end to a pa-triotic programme.

triotic programme.

The Ladies' Reading Club, of Junction City, is beginning to think about making preparations for the Federation meeting mext May. The Junction City Club will be the hostess of the K. S. S. F. at that time. Mrs. Rebecca D. Lowe, president of the G. F. W. C., is expected to be present. Junction City is centrally located and has a state reputation for hospitality, so that the attendance at the meeting will doubtless be large. Next Thursday's programme for the L. R. C. is as follows:

Oral tonic, "Historic Spots in Kansas," Mrs. S. M. Barnes.

Paper, "Charles Sumner;" "Crime Against Kansas," "The Admission of Kansas," Mrs. H. H. Mead.

"Character Studies of Caesar and Brutus," Miss Martha White.

"Was the Conspiracy Against Caesar Justifiable?" Mrs. G. W. McKnight.

A CARELESS WOMAN.

An Unobservant Husband and How He Finally Squared Himself With His Wife,

From the New York Times. The woman was going shopping. She had a great deal to do, and she put on one of her plainest and neatest of tailor made gowns and her strong, loose shopping gloves, and, with a trim little vell to keep the stray locks of hair in order, she started out. But some way she had a peculiar feeling that people were looking at her. She did not notice it at first, for she was intent on what she was doing, and, being a systematic individual, she was doing her shopping in order. "I wonder if I am getting self-conscious," she said to herself when she had been at work for about half a day, "Certainly it does seem to me that people are giving me more attention than need be," and she surveyed the length and breadth of her skirt and gown as far as she could see them, felt to see that there were no flying locks at the back of her head, and adjusted her veil. As far as she could find out, she was all right, but still she seemed to attract attention, and it made her nervous. "I'll just run into Jack's office," she said, "and have him see if there is anything out of the way with my gown." "No, you're all right," said Jack, as Mrs. Jack turned round and round before him. after the fashion of a shop window figure. The little anxious frown that had gathered between the pretty eyebrows gradually smoothed itself away and a smile gathered around her lips. "You're a dear, Jack," she said, as she gave him a kiss that it is to be hoped the people in the office building across the way did not see, and hurried off to finish her shopping. She had to hurry to make up for the time that brief inspection had cost her, and she was a little tired as she took the train for downtown and that part of Greater New York that is over the bridge. "The people are staring at me," she said, as she sat down almost ready to cry with the tiredness and annoyance. "I wonder—"
"Excuse me, madam," said a woman's volce at her elbow, "but did you know that gowns and her strong, loose shopping gloves, and, with a trim little vell to keep ready to cry with the thredness and annoyance. "I wonder—"

"Excuse me, madam," said a woman's voice at her elbow, "but did you know that you had no hat on?"
"Jack," cried Mrs. Jack, fifteen minutes later, as she burst into Mr. Jack's office, her voice breaking with sobs, "what did you mean by letting me go out without a hat when I asked you what was the matter with me?" hat when I asked you what was the matter with me?"

"Why," said Jack, "why, you haven't a hat on, have you? Well, you see"—soothingly, for Mrs. Jack was sobbing in good earnest by that time—"you see, you looked so nice with that little veil on and the little curls held down by it at the top, that my eyes couldn't get up to the place where the hat ought to have been. I am sorry, dear."

He was, and he showed it by putting on his own hat immediately and going home for the one Mrs. Jack had left behind her while she waited for him in the office.

QUAINT LITTLE TOWN.

On a Crater Floor High Above the Sea Not Far From Porto

Now that we have possession in the West Indies, that region will become far more interesting to American tourists. The prediction is frequently made that Havana is destined to be one of the most popular winter resorts in the world; and not a few of the smaller islands, some of which are scarcely known by name, will receive the scarcely known by name, will receive the patronage of a considerable part of the traveling public for excellent reasons. One of these little spots is the Dutch island of Saba, which is only a short sail from Porto Rico, and is one of the most unique specks of rock in the world. The day is coming when tourist steamers visiting the Lesser Antilles will, by unanimous demand, have to stop a few hours at Saba.

The island is only five square miles in extent, and is nothing but the conical top of an extinct volcano rising sharply 2.500 feet above the level of the sea. About 500 feet up the steep slope of this mountain top is an extinct voicano rising starpy 2.500 feet above the level of the sea. About 300 feet up the steep slope of this mountain top is a break in the wall of rock. It is where a crater was once formed in the side of the mountain, and the only important settlement on the island stands on the floor of this ancient crater. Visitors to the island land in a rocky cove and ascend the precipitous path consisting of steps cut in the rock, which the natives appropriately named "the ladder." Nearly 29) little houses adorn the rounded bottom of this crater, and owing to the nosition of the site of the pretty white houses and the verdure of the crater floor, with the mountain mass towering high behind them, is extremely unique and pleasing. Everything that the people of Bottom possess has to be carried up to this beight on their leads. Much practice has made the natives very expert in this business and 100 portos is not an unusual load and seems hardly to impede the advance of the carrier in the long stone steps. Over 2.000 people, mustive Dutch, white skinned, rosy-cheeked and tow-headed folk, live in the sottlement, and are certainly among the very hest specimens of successful colonization in the tropics. Seafaring and boat building are their occupations. It is said they build the best fishing boats in the Caribbees. They draw up the timber for the boats with ropes and then lower the boats down the mountain side. Saba is also exceptional from the fact that scarcely any segroes are to be found in the place. On most of the smaller West Indies the population is overwhelmingly black.

House Linen.

Linen belongings demand an oversight that must never be relaxed. Tablecloths and napkins, unless absolutely new, should be examined each week for spots that show wear, holding the linen to the light to determine where the weakened spots are, and darning them carefully. Handsome towels may be kept twice as long in use if the first hole is not allowed to appear. Sheets and pillow slips likewise demand especial oversight. She who never mends linen or cotton pieces until there is a hole worth patching belongs to the band of improvidents, for when an article requires this ugly remedy, its end is not far off. Linen should never require patching. It should be darned until it is quite beyond further strengthening; then a few days wear will see the last of it.

Why Not Drawing Room!

From the Boston Journal.

"This is the parlor, eh?" tentatively remarked the agent, who was looking over the house.

"Yes," replied old man Kidder, "but I usually call it the court room—I've got seven daughters, you know."

"I suppose that you save a good deal of money now that the golf season is over—caddle hire, etc?" "Save money! Well, I guess not! It's more expensive than ever. Why, only yesterday my wife smashed a $50 vase practicing her swing in the parlor, my daughter has broken two gas fixtures, and I myself, as careful as I am, have torn two holes in the rug!"—Harper's Bazar.

MEDICAL.

This is to certify that about May 1st, '95, I had a cancer of the womb. I had an operation with the knife by one of the leading physicians of Kansas City, Mo. In a short time after the operation a growth appeared on the right side of the spine. I consulted the surgeon again. He said the operation had caused the disease to spread there, and wished to operate again. But seeing Dr. Clement's ad in The Kansas City Journal, I called on him. After a careful examination he said he could cure me in about thirty days, and would guarantee that there would be nothing left of the disease to spread, after he had treated the case. I placed my case in his hands, and he has removed the cancer, and I feel as well as I did before I was troubled with the cancer. Prior to the time I started treatment with shooting pains all the time, and was unable to wear any tight garment at all. Under Dr. Clement's treatment there was no cutting, caustic, or loss of blood. I went to his office every other day for treatment. Under the first treatment with the knife Cancer Cured. ting, caustic, or loss of blood. I went to his office every other day for treatment. Under the first treatment with the knife I suffered a great deal, being confined to the hospital for a long time, and my husband paid large sums of money for which I received no benefit. I have found Dr. Clement to be an honest gentleman, and a skillful physician. I sincerely hope anyone troubled with cancer or tumors will investigate Dr. Clement's treatment themselves before having an operation with the knife. I will be pleased to see any one interested, and confirm this statement. My residence is 1716 Holly st., Kansas City, Mo.
